

SEWANEE
The University of the South

Report for the Diocese of East Carolina
As of October 2020

Located on the Cumberland Plateau in southern Tennessee, Sewanee is the Episcopal University. Coming to the Mountain can be like coming home. And we touch the lives of Episcopalians through a superb College of Arts and Sciences, a School of Theology with rigorous and innovative new programs and a commitment to supporting Episcopalians preparing for lay and ordained ministry, and a full slate of summer programs that enrich the lives (and faith journey) of youth. Sewanee touches the lives of many people throughout the country and beyond through superb educational programs for college students, seminarians, lay leaders, and lifelong learners.

Each summer high school youth ascend to the Mountain to participate in the SUMMA Student Theological Debate Society, learning formal debate and wrestling with important theological questions. The flagship program of the Beecken Center, Education for Ministry (EfM) has enriched the lives of thousands of Episcopalians, conferring a greater sense of ministry. The Invite Welcome Connect ministry energized congregations and leads them to greater thriving. Seminarians such as Malcolm McLaurin, T21, find Sewanee a welcoming place to prepare for a call to ministry. Seminarians such as Hannah Pommersheim, T19, and college students collaborate on such investigations as the Roberson Project, which is looking critically and carefully at the history of the University and the church through the lens of race relations.
